

You will find all the richness of Slovene cultural tradition in museum expositions and the authentic environment of the old typical buildings as well as experience it in people's customs and folk art. In Idrija you will find a world of natural wonders somewhere in between Alpine and Karstic mysteries.

The five stars hotel at Kenda manor – a modern hotel of the highest category, successor to a mighty farm - lies situated on a hill just across river Idrijca opposite of the local church. The mansion's history goes back to the late Middle Ages when first landowners took over a farm on the hill above Idrijca. Later on respected and distinguished Kendo family encouraged economic and cultural progress of the town. The Kenda manor today retains recollections of the past mightiness of farmers, the meaning of village autonomy and the role of rural mayors. Renovated granary, ambitiously ornamented in 1796 with living motives, lies next to the mansion. Among decorative motives there is also the so called Tree of Life.

You will remember this idyllic winter experience for the rest of your life!

Ceremony description

Getting married in this mansion means celebration for the whole house, so every single person will do his or her best to make this event an unforgettable experience for the newlyweds and their guests. The bride and the groom can choose to perform the civil marriage in Hana's or Jakob's hall or in Hana's garden under centuries old apple trees. Gentle piano sounds and a flower girl, ornamented with traditional Idrija laces and flower garlands, will accompany the newlyweds throughout the ceremony. Following a Slovene tradition the guests will throw rice on the newlyweds at the end of the ceremony. Champagne toasts for the newlyweds and a drink of special Kendo appetizer for the guests follow.
